

FACULTY

Stephen Seligman, D.M.H., a psychoanalyst and clinical psychologist, is Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at the University of California, San Francisco and Joint Editor-in-Chief of Psychoanalytic Dialogues, which has the highest impact factor of any psychoanalytic journal. He is also a Training and Supervising analyst at the San Francisco Center for Psychoanalysis and Psychoanalytic Institute of Northern California. Dr Seligman has authored over 70 publications.

In addition, he is the co-editor of the American Psychiatric Press' Infant and Early Childhood Mental Health: Core Concepts and Clinical Practice, and his own book, The Babies and the Bathwater: Attachment, Intersubjectivity and Developmental Psychoanalysis Today, will be forthcoming from Routledge. He is also associate editor of Studies in Gender and Sexuality, and was a member of the founding executive board of the Journal of Infant, Child and Adolescent Psychotherapy. He is also Clinical Professor at the New York University Postdoctoral Program in Psychoanalysis and on the faculty of the UC-Davis Infant Mental Health Certificate Program.

Judi Kobrick Ph.D., is President, supervising analyst, faculty and founding member of the Toronto Institute for Contemporary Psychoanalysis (TICP), and faculty at Toronto Psychoanalytic Institute & Society (TPS&I) and at the Institute for Advancement of Self Psychology (IASP). Dr. Kobrick is in private practice and on the Dean's Advisory Board for the Jackman ICS Laboratory School, University of Toronto.

THE TICP

The Toronto Institute for Contemporary Psychoanalysis offers a four-year program of professional and scholarly education that examines, contrasts and, where possible, integrates the thought and methods of major perspectives in contemporary psychoanalysis. The TICP brings outstanding investigators from around the world to present their work to professionals and scholars interested in expanding their knowledge of psychoanalysis.

SYNOPSIS

Saturday Morning Presentation: The Subjective Experience of Time: Unresponsive Objects and the Vacuity of the Future

Dr. Seligman discusses how a personal sense of time is organized and experienced. Synthesizing phenomenological philosophy, clinical psychoanalysis, and developmental theory and research, he will describe the ways that temporality can be seen as a fundamental giver and organizer of sense, of being and of meaning. He will focus on clinical implications for working with patients who present without a sense of a forward-moving future. His presentation will illustrate the effects of unresponsive parenting, and be punctuated by a clinical case discussion.

Saturday Afternoon Presentation: Mentalization, Metaphor, Acknowledgement, Grief: Interaction and Transformation in Psychoanalytic Process

A clinical presentation applies early development studies to psychotherapies with patients with traumatic histories and characterological problems. Emerging concepts such as mentalization and attachment will be considered along with transference-countertransference, projection and the complex uses and pitfalls of dyadic interactions, including "enactments."

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Become more familiar with different ways that the sense of time varies in different personalities and at different stages of the life cycle;
2. Become more familiar with the specific distortions in the sense of time in two kinds of trauma:
  - a. Acute stress trauma, and
  - b. Chronic neglect.
3. Apply these understandings to develop specific interventions in working with patients who present with these sorts of psychopathological presentations.
